Foreword

In the hope of presenting to our friends and successors a lasting and moving account of our high school experiences, we, the Class of 1967, proudly present the seventh edition of the Blue & Gold.

Were your words of advice to the Seniors,
Mr. Weisenfluh, forecasting a shadow of things to come?

Yes, you have left behind "footprints on the sands of time." So as we leave together -

"Let us then be up and doing

With a heart for any fate;

Still achieving, still pursuing

Learn to labor and to wait."

The yearbook of the Senior Class of 1967 is our dedication to a dedicated man.

ADMINISTRATION

MR. CLINTON WEISENFLUH

Superintendent of Schools

Dear Seniors,

You all leave footprints on the sands of time, but only a few may leave them bold and clear.

For most of you, perhaps, they are merely fading impressions hardly discernable to any one else but your loved ones. Yet, it is better to leave a faint impression of beauty for a few; than one that is ugly for the many. It is not so important that you leave footprints, but the kind that you leave is important.

You may leave the footprints of a worker, one who has tried hard to accomplish something in his field, however limited that field may have been or however modest the success.

Whether you are called to some position of leadership or live among the great multitude of common men, you will leave footprints which others may see. Let you so manage your lives that those footprints may guide someone you love toward a fuller and finer life.

Sincerely yours,
Clinton Weisenfluh
Superintendent

MR. WILLIAM SZCZECH

Assistant Superintendent

"For one who has served well, we express our deepest sympathy. He will remain forever in our hearts."

February 5, 1967

A boy who was welcomed everywhere, Vincent Bazzari was considered a friend by all. Though he was thought to be quiet and shy, whenever anyone needed him he was always there ready to help. He was an eager participant in school activities, a member of the Chess & Checkers Club, and an enthusiastic football player.

Amidst the noise and the laughter in the hallways, the voice of "Butchie" Bazzari will be missed by everyone who made his acquaintance.

Leonard Colbassani will be missed on the field during practice and at the games cheering on the players of Old Forge High School. "Pickles" was always there, eager to help with the enthusiasm of a grown boy, desirous to advise with the experience of a man, and ever ready to assist with the cheerfulness of a chum. To the boys he was a symbol of good sportsmanship, and to the town he was a symbol of a good citizen. For all of us, he remains in our memories as one who gave much of his time and efforts for the betterment of our community.

Class History

History is essentially retrospective. To turn in final survey of the brief span of time which now completely merges with the past and to recount the experiences and changes which mark the way, to enjoy again the pleasures and to feel again the regrets, to hold for a moment what has been, while we face the dim expanse of what is to come. This is our history:

It was in the fall of 1963 that we were greeted with the usual scorn of the upperclassmen. New acquaintances became part of our freshman class.

Throughout the year we experienced happiness as well as sadness: Happiness was achieved by attending the debut of the marching units, by being dismissed from school because of various bomb threats, and by obtaining a new member to the faculty, Mrs. Rose Kenney. Sadness came to us through the tragic death of our President, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, a man loved by all.

After a year of pushing our way through the crowded halls and receiving many bangs and bumps from the overcrowded lockers, we were ready for three months of recuperation. This vacation slipped by so quickly that before we knew it, D-Day was here again, and we became the rough-necked sophomores.

The first big event of that year were the football games highlighted by the red-paint battle between Old Forge and Duryea.

By far, the saddest part of our history was the loss of our dearly beloved teacher, Mr. Frank Wozniak, who had helped us throughout the rough spots of our freshman year.

As these two years passed we soon were faced with many important decisions and problems, because we became the sophisticated juniors. Foremost was the problem of fund raising, looking for a title for our junior-senior prom (later named "Wonderland by Night"), and a major challenge of how to grasp physics while listening to Mr. C's continuous jokes.

While the school term progressed, the following persons were elected our class officers: President - Ray Festino, Vice-President - Ron Doohaluk, Secretary - Jeannette Smith, and Treasurer - Rose Ann Krishak. The following teachers were appointed as our advisors: Mrs. Margaret Gibbons, Mrs. Theresa Wozniak, Mr. Carl Cherundolo, and Mr. Anthony Marchese. Upon the appointment of our advisors, the editor and co-editor of our yearbook were chosen, namely Lorraine DeAngelis and Basil Malish.

Some of our classmates were privileged to be nominated to the National Honor Society while several others were chosen to participate in "Bye, Bye, Birdie". The lead was played by Beth Ann Davis and Rich Ciuferri.

By visiting Keystone Junior College on May Fourth, students took a glimpse at college life.

Upon the selection of our class rings, we felt closer to the up-coming year.

After a summer of fun and work, we returned as the dear old seniors of Old Forge High. Our football team was disappointed upon the resignation of coach Tomasetti, but was happy to hear that his place would be filled by a graduate of our school, Mr. Paul Flowers.

Although this wasn't a spectacular season in all athletic games, our players showed good sportsmanship, thus encouraging future teams to do the same.

Among the many programs which took place during our senior year were: a Judo exhibition, a fashion show offering the newest mod-style fashions for interested girls, and the most worthwhile project was the sending of packages to the local boys in Viet Nam. The entire student body and faculty were touched deeply by the letters of appreciation received from these gallant men.

On our social calendar were the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter dances, and the Devilette's Debut at which Miss Devilette, Alyce Marie Cesare, relinquished her title to her successor. The most exciting of all events was the junior-senior prom, entitled "Moonlight and Roses". This was the first formal not held in our own school but at the Foxhill Country Club.

With the arrival of spring, many of us were anticipating letters of acceptance from higher institutions of learning.

Early on the morning of May 15, we, sleepy but anxious, were ready to depart for Washington, D.C. We were slightly delayed because one of our classmates had overslept; however, after we waited and waited, he at last made his appearance with Big John. At the Capital, we spent four enjoyable, stimulating and bustling days which will always remain as our treasured memories.

As the 1967 school year draws to a close, we, the members of the senior class embark upon a new horizon. A horizon which we hope might fulfill all our hopes and dreams. We will always have fond memories of days spent with friends and classmates whom we will never forget.

To aid and to support you, Alma Mater, the Class of 1967 pledges its steadfastness, its courtesy, its devotion, and, above all, its loyalty.

Bye, Bye

Birdie!

CLASS SONG

Now is the time	As we begin
When we must say good-bye	Traveling our chosen ways
To all the years	We shall recall
We shared at Old Forge High.	The happiest of our days.

Saying farewell to all we knew
Hoping our future dreams come true

Our heartfelt thanks
Are what we leave behind
Cherishing thoughts
Forever in our mind.

--"Somewhere My Love"
by Anne Marie Cesare

ALMA MATER

Alma Mater, praise thy glory
All through the years;
Loyalty will be our watchword
All through the years.
Loyal sons and loyal daughters
Never from thy banner falter
Dreams may fade but
Memories cherish
Dear Old Forge High

Slender trees here sighing murmur
In the moonlight clear;
For the loved ones now departed
All through the years.
Softly now our voices blending
Sing her praises never ending
Till our hearts are stilled forever,
Dear Old Forge High.

"Disarm The Heart —

For That Is Peace''

The life of a letter is not always the easiest of lives, for it is a difficult task to carry news. Now, it seems I have another job.....

THE CLASS OF '67 (As seen 10 years later)

by Linus Letter

As my mother gives me a shove out of the mailbox and says, "On your way, Little Linus Letter, and be sure to get every single member of the Class of '67," I think, "Mission Impossible" - Greet every member of the Class of '67 with the news of their tenth reunion.

As I lie on the sidewalk where I was so rudely pushed, I feel a shadow coming over me, and now I see a big hand descending upon me. Up I go, and there's good old R. J. Festino staring me straight in the stamp. (I remember his face from the time I was used as a marker in the '67 edition of the Blue and Gold. I remember everybody's face.) He cheerfully pockets me and we are soon on our way to his home. But first he stops at Joe's Market to show me to the proprietor, Joe Tuminski, who seems very enthusiastic about me and tells his butcher, Bob Zukauskas, of the upcoming event. We soon reach home to find R. J.'s neighbor Beth Ann Davis waiting at the door to borrow some sugar. Upon reading the message, she clutches me and dashes to her home to show me to her guests, Sally Radkiewicz, Corrine Calogero, Mrs. Andy Kalmonowicz (former Lorraine Cariati) and Mrs. Harry Abplanalp (former Rosemary Nese.) Sally, on leaving decides to take me along to show her business associate Annie DiGennari (they are co-owners of the Sally-Ann gym). Annie excitedly grabs me and sprints into the gym, yelling wildly to her pupils, Kathy Rezykowski, Paulette Marhelski, Donna Mudzo, Marsha Legg, and Mary Jo Cordora. The girls make so much noise that John Talerico, the proprietor of the neighboring gym, comes over to see what's the matter. He takes me back to his gym where Frank Adomiak, Mike Dzuiba, and Tom Krenitsky are working out. They become so excited when they learn of the approaching event that they drop me in the locker room, where John Crespolini, the plumber, picks me up. He takes me with him to his next stop, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Corradino's house, where he is fixing a leaky faucet. Mrs. Corradino (former Donna Shypulski), who is preparing for a dinner party tonight, takes me to Joanne Soprano's Beauty Parlor. Joanne shows me to her assistant Joan Rinaldi and to her customers, Jenny Kreseskie, Antoinette Osellanie, Christine Moses and Helene Butrim. As they're gabbing excitedly about plans for the reunion, Rich and Billy Taffera arrive with a delivery of towels from Metcho and Bartolomei's Chinese Laundry. In a few hours Mrs. Corradino is finished at the beauty parlor and takes me home to show her dinner guests, Ricky and Carol Melucci, Ronnie and Grace Pritchuk, Donnie and Charlotte Palma, and Ronnie and Margaret Ann Doohaluk. I'm the topic of conversation all evening, except for a short discourse on the lovely floral arrangements from "Flowers by Sandra."

Mrs. Melucci takes me with her and on the way home we stop at Jonny Jones' gas station. He shows me to his attendant Joe Riviello, who seems enthusiastic. Just as we are about to leave, Dan Witiak drives up in his tractor trailer. He's being tailed by State Policemen in charge of Traffic Safety Nick Lubianetsky and Bob Belcastro. They are so happy to hear my news that they don't even give Danny a ticket. Finally everyone says good night and we go home.

Next day Carol takes me to a fashion show at Bonie's Boutique owned by Anne Marie Cesare. The models for the show are Alyce Marie Cesare, Colleen Propersi, Pam Albanesi, Sue Seaman, Diane Wojcik, and Antoinette Osellanie. Commentator is internationally known as Phee Minelli. There's even a band here too. The leader is Rich Ciufferi and the members are Pat and Mike Bussacco, those sensational saxes; Bob Resio, Butch Smicherko and Betty Semenza on the drums. Their swinging vocalist is Basil Malish belting it out with his current hit "South Street". Above the band in cages are the go-go dancers, Nancy Schiavo and Joan Shean. The manager for the entire group is Chic Cherundolo.

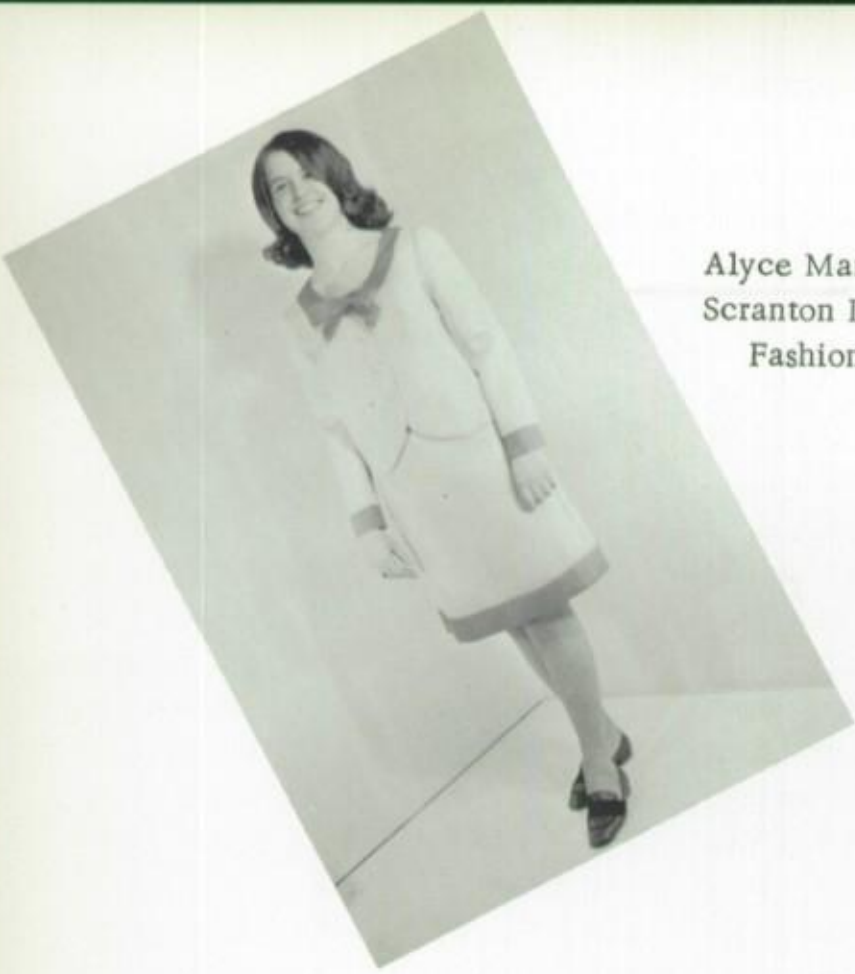

As we leave the store, we happen upon a military parade and it seems Mrs. Melucci sees a lot of her friends. She becomes so excited waving and shouting that, unnoticed, I slip away and am carried through the air on a breeze only to land under the epaulet on the shoulder of Captain Tony Gatto U. S. M. C. He eagerly tells his buddies Lt. Denny Fumanty, Major Larry Perks, Sgt. Frank Scarnato, Col. Tommy Colburn and Sgt. Louis Stassi. In a sudden gust of wind I'm blown out of Stassi's hand onto the lap of Carol Barbett, the discoverer of a new element, Barbettium, who, with her eminent associate Danny Sucheski, was invited to be honorary Grand Marshall of the parade. The mayor presiding over the festivities is Anthony Giordano assisted by tax collector Tom Basta and councilmen Bob Giacometti and Joe Grabowski. In the press box I see the noted journalists, Sandy Scavo and Rose Ann Krishak, as well as reporters Leona Greenfield, Georgiann Holgash, Marlene Lisowski, Marcella Przywara and Josie De Simone. The cameramen televising the event are none other than Ronnie Pawlikowski, Don Barycki, Tom Scandale and Richard Rishko. The announcer is Bob Cistola. Now Chris Orazzi, the celebrated vocalist, is giving a moving rendition of the Star Spangled Banner. I seem to be getting a bit muddled up traveling to so many people.

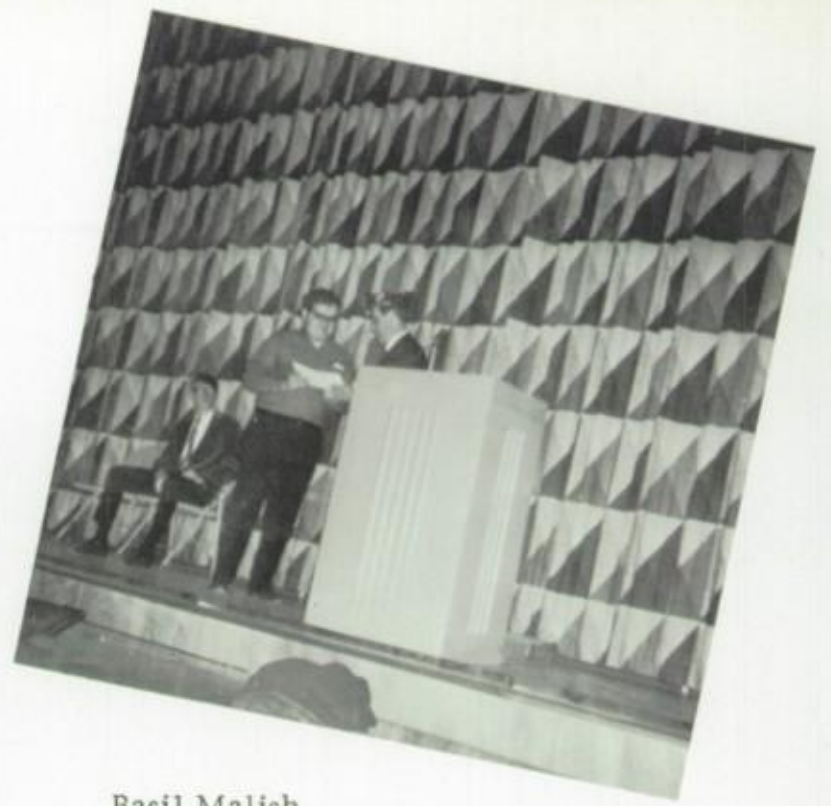

Finally I am returned to Bobby Giacometti, who that evening takes me to a ball game, where we see Lorraine De Angelis, Donna Serino, Michele Nemetz, Jacki Reviello and Marisa Giordano avid fans of the sport. In all the excitement Marisa lets go of me and I float on to the field, where one of the players, Gary Talerico, mistaking me for the ball, makes a running leap for me and stumbles to the ground. He does manage to get me and reads me as he is being carried off the field by his teammates Sammy Granko and Paul Trzcinski. Before being helped into the ambulance by attendants Joe Rizzo and Bob Makala, he yells to the hot dog vendor Flash Talerico the news of the upcoming event! He is whisked away to General Hospital by the driver Ron Hatala. At the emergency desk he is admitted by receptionist Rosemary Ciuccio and is wheeled to a room by the orderlies Sam Scavo and Frank Menichello. He is immediately attended by Dr. Joe Marsico, Monica Ulias, head nurse, and Diane Aulizio. While putting Gary's clothes away, Monica notices me and gleefully reports the news to her co-workers Marie Bianco, Beverly Buranich, lab technician, and librarians Sandy Legg, Joanne Phillips, Mary Myerchik and Sandy Yankowski. Via the hospital grapevine, the volunteers Marlene Besecker, Sharon Allegrucci, Rosalie Semenza and Rita Puzio learn of the reunion. Monica takes me to her apartment and shows me to her roommate Jeanette Smith, an executive secretary at Look Magazine. Next day at work Jeanette discusses plans for the reunion with her fellow secretaries Carol Niski, Marlene Malatesta, Sandy McHugh and Ann Marie Killino. Carol suggests going to Margie Collins and Ida Talerico in the art department to let them know of the approaching celebration.

As I'm returned to R. J., who is chairman of the celebration, I feel that I have finally completed my mission impossible. I eagerly anticipate that festive night when I shall occupy a prominent place on the hotel marquee at the entrance to the ballroom.

Farewell

As our senior year draws to a close, we should like to express our deepest thanks to all who have helped us in the preparation of this book.

We hope that, as our readers browse through this, our last high school enterprise, they may re-live with us all of the humorous, tragic, enriching and endearing experiences that we have enjoyed during the last four years.

May God's blessings forever accompany our classmates, and may they all cherish this book for many decades to come.
